May 21-22, 2014

Sebasco Harbor Resort
Phippsburg, Maine

ADVANCE PROGRAM
Whether you’re a returning ENCorps member or a new attendee joining us for the first time this year, we want to welcome you to the 2014 Encore Leadership Corps Summit. This year’s summit is a great opportunity for members to come together to discuss and learn about important topics in current events, food security and food access, and community leadership. This year’s setting for our two-day convening will be the beautiful Sebasco Harbor Resort in Phippsburg. The 2014 Summit promises to deliver an exciting and engaging gathering meant to support you, the volunteer, and the important community work you are doing. Some of the key highlights of this year’s program include:

• Kristen Miale, President of the Good Shepherd Food Bank, who will talk about food security issues in Maine and why this is an important issue that touches every Maine community.

• John Jemison and Esperanza Stancioff from the UMaine Cooperative Extension who will speak about climate change impacts on agriculture and the marine system in Maine.

• Workshop presenters who will cover timely topics like growing fresh and local food, communicating your cause, leadership development, and skills for conducting a local cultural inventory.

• Unique opportunities for off-site learning and engagement through selected educational tours at the Bath Area Food Bank, Maine Maritime Museum, and downtown Bath. A presentation about the cultural history of nearby Malaga Island will be offered in addition to these off-site tours.

• Networking time to meet other members, learn more about their community work, and get help from your fellow ENCorps members.

All of the 2014 Summit programming is made possible because of our generous funders including Atlantic Philanthropies, the Elmina B. Sewall Foundation, and our partners at the Maine Community Foundation. Thank you to our Summit exhibitors, for providing information, resources and additional opportunities for ENCorps volunteer work in the community, as well.

This year’s event is guaranteed to inspire, educate and stimulate as we celebrate the community work that our members are completing throughout Maine. If you are new to ENCorps, our annual event is a great way to learn more about our program and the support we provide to experienced Mainers who are making a difference every day in their communities.

We hope you enjoy the 2014 Encore Leadership Corps Summit.

Sincerely,
ENCorps staff and partners

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTIONS

When Generations Collide: Working with (and Managing) the Differences of the Four Generations in the Workplace
Mandy Shumaker, Founder of Higher Performing People
For the first time ever, we have four generations working side by side in the workplace. Each of these generations has been impacted by various events that shape who they are and how they work and yet, we need to understand what motivates the various generations and how to work together. Conflicts frequently have generational issues as their cause:
“She’s just not committed to her work.”
“Those kids have the worst work ethic!”
“Did she go home already? The project isn’t finished!”
“What do you mean, I can’t work from home on Fridays.”
This session will offer a better understanding and appreciation of each generation and how they act and think. It will include ideas on how to motivate and retain great employees from all generations, as well as offer insight into how to constructively work with individuals from among the various generations

Using Cultural Resources to Lead Change in your Community
Kathleen Mundell, Special Programs Director, Maine Arts Commission
Discovery research is a cultural inventory training program that teaches participants how to identify and document their own community’s tangible and intangible cultural assets. Such training helps bring to light what people consider important in their communities as well as strengthens the connections between people, place and local life. More than just a collection of names and resources, this process is also a community-building exercise, strengthening social capital and the important role older adults can play in civic life. Previous ENCorps workshops have focused on environmental stewardship, grassroots leadership and community development, with an emphasis on making decisions that protect and improve quality of life for all residents. The discovery research workshop will build on this work by providing participants techniques in cultural inventorying, community organizing and developing local cultural initiatives.

Get More From Your Vegetable Garden: Ways To Extend The Garden Season
Caragh Fitzgerald, Agriculture Extension Educator, UMaine Cooperative Extension
Maine’s growing season is so short, some years it is gone in the blink of an eye. This program will help you learn ways to extend your growing season, everything from succession planting to small season extension structures with row cover or plastic. You will also learn how these methods fit with different types of community projects, such as school gardens and Maine Harvest for Hunger projects. This session is intended for people who have or who are starting garden projects.

Effectively Lobbying Your Elected Officials: How to Make Your Voice Heard
The Honorable Roger Katz, Maine State Senate
This workshop will cover how individuals and groups can effectively influence elected government and officials, particularly in the Legislature, including: what makes a difference, how to know your audience, how to use social media to lobby and five things to avoid when communicating with elected officials.
Moving Your Passion Into Action: Communicating to Advance Effective Engagement
Laura Lindenfeld, Associate Professor, UMaine Department of Communication & Journalism
Hollie Smith, Research & Teaching Fellow, UMaine Department of Communication & Journalism
How can the way you communicate encourage donors to contribute to your cause? At the core of mobilizing people is sharing your own authentic passion for what drives your commitment to community work. This workshop will provide skills and strategies that can help you engage potential donors and other volunteers in the work that matters to you. We will tap into the reasons you began your own commitment to engagement to energize effective communication approaches that bring others to the table and help to spread your great ideas!

Succession Planning - Building a Leadership Pipeline
Karin Anderson, Principal, Dala Consulting Group
Too often, volunteer leaders are asked over and over again to take on responsibility for specific jobs or tasks – oftentimes for an entire organization. How can we build “leadership pipelines” effectively for the work we care about? How do we find new leaders to step up to the task? This workshop will explore these questions and provide a road map for effective leadership planning, assuring that the good work you’re doing now will continue into the future.

Fifty million people in the U.S.—one in four children—don’t know where their next meal is coming from. Directors Kristi Jacobson and Lori Silverbush examine the issue of hunger in America through the lens of three people struggling with food insecurity: Barbie, a single Philadelphia mother who grew up in poverty and is trying to provide a better life for her two kids; Rosie, a Colorado fifth-grader who often has to depend on friends and neighbors to feed her and has trouble concentrating in school; and Tremonica, a Mississippi second-grader whose asthma and health issues are exacerbated by the largely empty calories her hardworking mother can afford.

Ultimately, A Place at the Table shows us how hunger poses serious economic, social and cultural implications for our nation, and that it could be solved once and for all, if the American public decides — as they have in the past — that making healthy food available and affordable is in the best interest of us all.

“The film explains with devastating simplicity why so many go hungry in a country with more than enough food to go round.” – LONDON EVENING STANDARD

“Beautifully shot and edited. The craft is of a very high level” – TORONTO HOTDOCS FILM FESTIVAL MUST SEE

“A PLACE AT THE TABLE doesn’t offer any answers. Instead, it asks you to help find them by getting involved, which is the mark of an excellent documentary.” – TORONTO FILM SCENE
OPTIONAL AFTERNOON ACTIVITIES

Wednesday, May 21

Maine Maritime Museum
Discover the only intact historic shipyard in the US where large wooden sailing vessels were built, including the six-mast schooner Wyoming, the largest built in the US. The tour starts in the Museum building, then moves outside where our docent will relate the story of wooden shipbuilding in Bath highlighting the historic shipyard buildings, docks and ways. The centerpiece of the tour is the full-scale sculpture of the Wyoming.

Tour of Downtown Bath
Come tour award winning Downtown Bath! In 2005, Bath was named a Distinctive Destination by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. In 2009, Front Street, Bath was designated a Great Street by the American Planning Association, and in 2012, Bath was recognized with a Great American Main Street Award from the National Main Street Center. Learn about Bath’s history, architecture and revitalization through an informative walking tour of this celebrated downtown.

Bath Area Food Bank
Located at the UCC Church on Congress Street, the Bath Area Food Bank serves 250-300 families every month. Come tour this grassroots food bank to learn about its mission, funding, volunteer management, and methods of acquiring necessary food. You will leave inspired!

On-Site Presentation: Malaga Island’s Cultural History
Kate McBrien, curator at the Maine State Museum, will give an illustrated presentation about the poor, mixed-race community which was evicted from Malaga Island, Maine one hundred years ago. “The Malaga Island story is important to an understanding of racism, economics, social reform, and the role of government in the early 1900s. For nearly 100 years, Malaga Island, located at the mouth of the New Meadows River in Phippsburg, was scarcely spoken of, except negatively. When archaeologists from the University of Southern Maine began excavations on Malaga, the long-missing fragments of peoples’ lives there began to re-surface. McBrien’s talk will look at those fragments, along with historical photographs and documents, to better understand the community and the forces that shaped its formation and demise. In addition to the history of Malaga Island, McBrien’s talk will include specific information on some of the individuals who lived there, as well as what happened to them after the eviction.

OPTIONAL EVENING ACTIVITIES

Wednesday, May 21

Join us after dinner for some optional activities where you can relax, unwind and get to know your fellow ENCorps members. The resort offers a range of opportunities for fun and relaxation, including bowling and games in the game room or consider joining us for a fireside chat. We will also be showing the movie “A Place at the Table” (see previous page for description).
STAFF & PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES

Karin Anderson, Principal, Dala Consulting Group
Karin Anderson has more than 30 years of experience as a leader in the nonprofit arena. In 2006, she launched her consulting business in Portland, Maine to provide program and organizational development support to foundations and nonprofits to help them achieve stronger mission impact. Her work to date has included developing strategic plans and fund development strategies, nonprofit executive leadership development, and building organizational and leadership capacity in small and medium-sized organizations, including a three-year project working with ethnic community based organizations within Maine’s refugee communities. Before launching her consulting business, Karin served as Executive Director of the Maine Women’s Fund. Karin currently serves on the boards of United Somali Women of Maine and the Portland Community Health Center. She also serves on advisory boards or committees of Planned Parenthood of Northern New England, Maine Initiatives, and Goodwill of Northern New England.

Jennifer Crittenden, Program Manager, Encore Leadership Corps
Jennifer Crittenden is the Fiscal and Administrative Officer at the University of Maine Center on Aging. She has over nine years of experience in professional and community education and program planning. Nearly all research projects and grant-funded programs under her management entail the translation of academic research into professional and public education programs, events and dissemination activities. She has been involved in implementing and evaluating a wide range of aging initiatives, including serving as the Program Manager for Encore Leadership Corps, Evaluation Coordinator for the Penquis Regional Linking Project, Coordinator of the Rural Relatives as Parents Project, and Program Manager for the Safe Medicine Disposal for ME Program. She is a member of a number of organizations and professional groups, including the Maine Gerontological Society, International Institute on Pharmaceutical Safety and the Gerontological Society of America for which she has served as the co-chair of the Rural Aging Interest Group. She has an MSW from the University of Maine.

Caragh Fitzgerald, Agriculture Extension Educator, UMaine Cooperative Extension
Caragh Fitzgerald is an Agriculture Extension Educator with the University of Maine Cooperative Extension. She is based in the Kennebec County office in Augusta. She helps gardeners and farmers to improve their production, sustainability and profitability, focusing on vegetable production, new farmer education, and home horticulture training. An enthusiastic teacher and researcher, Caragh welcomes questions about plants and plant pests, as well as new program ideas. Having gardened from Aroostook County (Maine) to central Maryland, Caragh now gardens with her husband and twin daughters in China, Maine. She holds a B.A. in Chemistry from Bowdoin College and an M.S. in Plant, Soil, and Environmental Sciences from the University of Maine.

Patricia Foden, Program Coordinator, Encore Leadership Corps
Patti is the Encore Leadership Corps Program Coordinator. She is responsible for recruiting and supporting Maine volunteers over 50 years old as stewards of their communities in the areas of healthy living, the environment, and smart growth. Her background includes more than 20 years of training and leadership development experience in both business and non-profit organizations. She serves on the Board of the Maine chapter of the Society of Training and Development and is an Action Learning Coach facilitating an Issue-Based Community Impact group for the Association of Junior Leagues International. She earned a BA in Speech Communication from the University of Maine and is a Certified Birkman Method® Consultant.

John Jemison, Extension Professor of Soil and Water Quality, UMaine Cooperative
As an Extension Professor of Soil and Water Quality, John Jemison develops and delivers educational programs designed to encourage growers and homeowners to implement practices to protect surface and ground water supplies. With projects like the Orono Community Garden, he teaches people what it takes to grow food, better understand civic agriculture and the benefits of local food systems. His agricultural research focuses on nutrient and week management strategies to improve productivity, reduce risk to water quality, and boost local food production. He teaches courses on food systems and the fate of pesticides in the environment. He is chair of the Maine Board of Pesticides Control and a cooperating professor in the School of Food and Agriculture.
The Honorable Roger Katz, Maine State Senate
Roger Katz serves the citizens of Augusta, China, Oakland, Sidney and Vassalboro in the Maine State Senate. He came to the Senate in 2010 following two terms as the Mayor of Augusta. Katz is currently the Assistant Republican Leader in the Senate and served during the last Legislature on the Appropriations Committee and as Chair of the Government Oversight Committee. Katz is a longtime activist in his community serving in leadership capacities with such organizations as United Way, Kennebec Valley YMCA, Team Cony, the Augusta Charter Commission and the Augusta Bicentennial Celebration. He’s also served as Vice President of the Board of Maine State Music Theater. Le Club Calumet gave Katz its “Citizen of the Year” award for his community service and he has also received the “Business Person of the Year” award from the Kennebec Valley Chamber of Commerce. An accomplished attorney, Katz is a senior partner in the Augusta firm of Lipman & Katz, is a former president of the Maine Trial Lawyers Association and has been named one of the “outstanding lawyers in America.”

Dr. Lenard W. Kaye, Director, UMaine Center on Aging
Dr. Kaye is a Professor of Social Work at the University of Maine School of Social Work and Director of the UMaine Center on Aging. Dr. Kaye is the Principal Investigator of two U.S.E.P.A.-funded projects: the Safe Medicine Disposal for ME program and ENCOrps (Encore Leadership Corps). He is a former President of the Maine Gerontological Society and a Fellow of the Gerontological Society of America.

Laura Lindenfeld, Associate Professor of Communication & Journalism, UMaine
Laura Lindenfeld’s work reflects the notion that how we communicate about the world fundamentally shapes our experience of it. An Associate Professor in Communication & Journalism at the University of Maine, her work seeks to advance our ability to collaborate across different institutions in ways that promote a more sustainable future for people and for the planet. Lindenfeld’s scholarship investigates how researchers, communities, stakeholders, and decision makers can work together more effectively to advance effective collaboration and change.

Kristen Miale, President, Good Shepherd Food Bank
Kristen Miale is the President of Good Shepherd Food Bank, Maine’s largest hunger relief organization. Good Shepherd Food Bank works with a network of over 600 non-profit organizations to distribute 14 million pounds of food throughout the state to people in need. Before her role as President, she was the founder and program director of Cooking Matters for Maine, a local chapter of Share Our Strength’s nationally recognized cooking and nutrition education program for low-income families. Prior to her work with food security, she worked for over a decade in the private equity and business consulting fields. After volunteering for hunger relief organizations, she decided to make her passion for ending hunger her occupation. She received her undergraduate degree from Boston College and her Masters in Business Administration from Boston University where she studied both entrepreneurship and non-profit management. She served as a board member and treasurer of Big Brothers Big Sisters of Southern Maine and on the board of the Cumberland County Extension Association.

Kathleen Mundell, Special Programs Director, Maine Arts Commission
Kathleen Mundell directs the Creative Aging and Traditional Arts programs of the Maine Arts Commission. Previous to her tenure at the Maine Arts Commission, Ms. Mundell directed Cultural Resources, a non-profit working with Maine communities on developing strategies that help sustain their local culture. She holds a Masters Degree in Folklore from Indiana University and has over thirty years’ experience in the fields of public sector folklore and community arts. Ms. Mundell pioneered a cultural inventory process called “Discovery Research,” detailed in “Sensing Place: A Guide to Community Culture,” which she co-authored with cultural geographer Hilary Frost-Kumpf. She is also the author of “North by Northeast: Wabanaki, Akwesasne Mohawk and Tuscarora Traditional Arts” published by Tilbury House Press.
Mia Noyes, Graduate Assistant, Encore Leadership Corps
Mia Noyes is a Graduate Research Assistant at the UMaine Center on Aging. Originally from central Maine, she earned her B.A. in History from California State University, Northridge in 2007 and served as a Youth Development Volunteer in Ukraine with the Peace Corps from 2008 to 2010. She is currently working towards a Masters in Social Work at the University of Maine and is enthusiastic about her professional commitment to working with and serving older adults in Maine.

Hollie Smith, Research & Teaching Fellow, Communication & Journalism, UMaine
As a PhD candidate at the University of Maine, Hollie Smith works as a research and teaching fellow within the Department of Communication & Journalism and the Margaret Chase Smith Policy Center. She has a Master’s and Bachelor’s degree in Communication and Public Relations. Hollie studies the intersections of science, media, and policy, as they relate to environmental conflicts and decision-making. This work stems from her professional experiences as a reporter and editor covering environmental issues. She hopes that her research can help change the way scientific issues are written about in the media. Her research also aims to promote the inclusion of scientific research into political decision-making.

Mandy Shumaker, Founder, Higher Performing People
Mandy Schumaker is the founder of Higher Performing People, a company devoted to helping self-employed professionals and small businesses get more clients, grow their business and make more money faster than they would on their own. She gives her clients a practical step-by-step formula that makes it easy for them to create a clear, concise plan of action, get over their fear of sales and marketing and break free from the issues that can keep them stuck, confused and overwhelmed. Mandy spent over twenty years as an advertising and marketing executive in the newspaper industry and has the gift to help people reach their full potential in their life and in their businesses. She holds a BS in Journalism from Indiana University and is a certified coach through Coach, Inc.

Esperanza Stancioff, Extension Educator, UMaine Cooperative Extension
Esperanza’s current work focuses on climate change education and adaptation planning. Since joining the University of Maine Cooperative Extension in 1988, Esperanza has designed and implemented educational programs in coastal ecosystem health, specifically in marine environmental monitoring and watershed assessment and management. She is the recipient of a Gulf of Maine Visionary Award from the Gulf of Maine Council on the Marine Environment for her long-term devotion to improving public awareness and protection of estuarine water quality (1992) and a Maryann Hartman Award for her contributions to statewide environmental stewardship and marine education (1999).

Barbara Steller, ENCorps Member and Tai Chi Instructor
Barbara’s interest in Tai Chi started many years ago. She was hyper in mental and physical activities and needed to learn to relax so everyone around her could do the same. She found Tai Chi. It did the trick and her 22 days in China enriched and enhanced the practice and the belief. Some people still do not believe she can wind down but the proof is in the pudding – come “stretch” with her!

Questions? Please call Mia Noyes at 207-262-7931 or e-mail mia.noyes@umit.maine.edu.

Sending in your registration form as soon as possible will help us prepare and ensure your needs are met while at the Summit. Please complete the registration form individually even if you are attending with a significant other. After we receive your completed registration form, we will be in contact with more details as the Summit draws closer. We are looking forward to seeing you at the Summit on May 21-22, and we hope you are looking forward to the Summit as well. Thank you and see you soon!

REGISTRATION FEES

There is a $25 non-refundable registration fee to attend the Summit. This fee will help us to defray a small portion of the costs for the Summit and includes all meals throughout the 2 day event and lodging Wednesday night. This is a flat registration fee and will apply to all participants whether you attend one day or both days of the Summit and whether or not you take advantage of staying in a provided hotel room. See important information below regarding meals and lodging.

LODGING INFORMATION

Lodging will be provided, if requested, at the Sebasco Harbor Resort hotel, a beautiful seaside resort near Bath, Maine. Preference for lodging will be given to those attendees staying for the full summit event. You will be assigned to a hotel room with another ENCorps member based on gender and location so that you will have a chance to meet other participants from your region of the state. Lodging will be provided in standard hotel rooms with 2 or more beds or 1 king or queen bed (couples rooms only). If you are attending the Summit as a couple, you may request to room together. If you know of someone attending the Summit with whom you would like to share a room, please indicate this on your registration form. Those attending both days will get priority for free lodging and we will do our best to accommodate your requests.

Lodging will be provided free of charge on Wednesday night for Summit attendees. If you would prefer to room alone at your own expense, the Sebasco Harbor Resort is offering a special rate of $99/night or you may find other lodging nearby. You will need to make these reservations directly with the Resort. Please tell them you are with the Encore Leadership Corps Summit to receive the special rate (Please note: You are still responsible for paying the $25 Summit registration fee even if you book your own lodging).
